DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. Figures 4-8 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fujihara et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,771,083, from hereinafter "Fujihara") in view of Ellis (U.S. Patent No. 5,546,204).

5. As to claim 1, Fujihara discloses a liquid crystal display (LCD) having a TFT substrate (fig. 1, ref. 8) and a counter substrate (fig. 2, ref. 1) with liquid crystal layer (col. 1, lines 41-43), where the TFT array substrate has a display area and a terminal forming area such that the display area has a pixel electrode (fig. 1, ref. 5), a switching element (fig. 1, ref. 8), a gate line (fig. 1, ref. 2) and a source line (fig. 1, ref. 3) while the terminal forming area has a terminal electrode for connecting to the gate or source line to an external signal source. Furthermore, the first metallic line and the second metallic line are both connected to the terminal electrode via respective contact holes (fig. 2, ref. 13) arranged below the terminal electrode, and an insulating layer (fig. 2, ref. 9) is interposed between the first metallic line and the second metallic line.

However, the reference fails to specifically disclose a liquid crystal layer interposed between the TFT substrate and counter substrate.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have positioned the liquid crystal layer between the two substrate layers since one would recognize that as well known (Fujimara, col.1, lines 41-43). Furthermore, Ellis discloses a TFT matrix LCD with a liquid crystal layer between a TFT substrate and counter substrate (col. 2, lines 7-21; fig. 5), which provides a normalized viewing pixel, ultimately improving aperture ratio and increasing display reliability (col. 2, line 64 – col. 3, line 3).

6. Regarding claims 2-6, Fujihara discloses the LCD device as recited above where the first metallic line is made from the same layer as the source line and the second metallic layer is made from the same layer as the gate line, such that the first metallic line is connected to the source line and the second metallic line is lower than the first metallic line (fig. 2 and 3).
